The 2026 Land Rover Defender 110 P400 S serves as the powerhouse entry into the 6-cylinder Defender family, offering the ideal blend of world-class off-road hardware and modern digital luxury. While the smaller P300 engine is capable, the P400 3.0L Inline-6 is the enthusiast's choice, utilizing a mild-hybrid system and an electric supercharger to eliminate lag and deliver a muscular 395 hp. This allows the 110 S to feel surprisingly athletic on the highway, reaching 100 km/h in 6.1 seconds. Crucially for Canadian drivers, the P400 S comes standard with Electronic Air Suspension, allowing you to increase ground clearance to 290 mm for deep snow or lower the vehicle for easy garage entry. The interior of the 2026 "S" trim has been significantly elevated, now featuring the massive 11.4-inch Pivi Pro curved glass touchscreen as standard equipment. The cabin reflects the Defender's "durable luxury" ethos, with Resist upholstery—a high-performance, leather-free material designed for easy cleaning after a day on the trails—and standard heated front seats. The tech suite is comprehensive, including a high-resolution Interactive Driver Display, Wireless Device Charging, and a 400W Meridian™ Sound System that provides crisp audio even over the sound of all-terrain tires. True to its heritage, the Defender 110 P400 S is a master of utility. It features a best-in-class 8,201 lb towing capacity and is equipped with Terrain Response, which allows drivers to optimize the powertrain and braking systems for ice, mud, or sand. Safety is a high-tech affair with the standard 3D Surround Camera, which includes a virtual "ClearSight Ground View" to help you see "through" the hood to avoid obstacles. With its signature Alpine lights, side-hinged tailgate, and a full-size spare tire, the 2026 P400 S is a ruggedly handsome tool built to handle the harshest Canadian environments with effortless style.
