The P400 3.0L Inline-6 engine utilizes mild-hybrid technology and an electric supercharger to deliver 395 hp with virtually zero lag, propelling the vehicle to 100 km/h in 5.7 seconds. Standard Dynamic Air Suspension is the secret to its dual personality, providing a supple ride for city driving while automatically firming up to minimize body roll when the road gets twisty. The Dynamic SE trim is distinguished by its purposeful stance, featuring 21-inch wheels and the Dynamic Exterior Pack, which adds sophisticated Burnished Copper accents and Matte Graphite lettering. Inside, the cabin is a minimalist masterpiece centered around the 13.1-inch Pivi Pro curved glass touchscreen. For the 2026 model year, luxury is standard; you'll find Perforated Windsor Leather, a fixed panoramic roof, and high-end touches like Soft Door Close and a 15-speaker Meridian™ Sound System that includes a dual-channel subwoofer. Engineered for the Canadian lifestyle, the Range Rover Sport is as capable in a blizzard as it is on a track. It features a standard heated steering wheel, heated front and rear seats, and the latest Terrain Response 2 system, which uses sensors to automatically select the best drive mode for ice, snow, or mud. Safety is state-of-the-art, with Adaptive Cruise Control with Steering Assist, Lane Keep Assist, and a 3D Surround Camera with Wade Sensing technology. With a massive 7,716 lb towing capacity, the 2026 P400 Dynamic SE remains the ultimate tool for those who demand both prestige and power.
